Activity 1
Estimated time: 15 minutes
Imagine that you want to put together a proposal for a new bus service.
What do you need to consider, before applying?
What commercial factors need to be taken into account and what operational factors?
what commercial factors need to be taken into account and what operational factors:
Activity 2
Estimated time: 10 minutes
Estimated time: 10 minutes
In London, bus routes are largely set in stone and potential operators must tender for the contract.
In London, bus routes are largely set in stone and potential operators must tender for the contract.
In London, bus routes are largely set in stone and potential operators must tender for the contract. What do you know about the tendering process?
In London, bus routes are largely set in stone and potential operators must tender for the contract.
In London, bus routes are largely set in stone and potential operators must tender for the contract. What do you know about the tendering process?
In London, bus routes are largely set in stone and potential operators must tender for the contract. What do you know about the tendering process?
In London, bus routes are largely set in stone and potential operators must tender for the contract. What do you know about the tendering process?
In London, bus routes are largely set in stone and potential operators must tender for the contract. What do you know about the tendering process?