

Moving Forward Resources

Cybersecurity technology is a race between the good guys and the bad guys. Unfortunately, it is impossible to have perfectly secured technology. Minimize the risks and always try to stay up to date. Below you can find some useful websites, blogs and other worthwhile things to read.

Homeland Security

Website: <https://www.dhs.gov/be-cyber-smart>

Website: <https://www.dhs.gov/topic/cybersecurity>

Federal Trade Commission

Website: <https://www.consumer.ftc.gov/topics/privacy-identity-online-security>

Microsoft Secure team

The official site of the Microsoft Secure team. Follow for news, updates, and much more.

Twitter: <https://twitter.com/msftsecurity>

Blog:

<https://cloudblogs.microsoft.com/microsoftsecure/>

Google Security Blog

The latest news and insights from Google on security and safety on the Internet

<https://security.googleblog.com/>

Brian Krebs

Independent investigative journalist. Writes about cybercrime.

Twitter: <https://twitter.com/briankrebs>

WIRED

The latest Cybersecurity news from WIRED.

Website: <https://www.wired.com/category/security/>

Daniel Miessler

David will catch you up on current events, show you the best content from around the web, and hopefully give you something to think about as well.

Website: <https://danielmiessler.com/>

Unsupervised learning, a 30 minute podcast:

<https://danielmiessler.com/podcast/>

Security Podcasts

Best Security podcasts — Latest news, interviews and information. Note: You may find these podcasts a little too technical.

<https://player.fm/featured/security>

Malwarebytes Labs

Report: Cybercrime tactics and techniques: 2017 state of malware.

<https://www.malwarebytes.com/pdf/white-papers/CTNT-Q4-17.pdf>

This report is relatively easy to read and full of samples you can learn from.

Verizon

2018 Data Breach Investigations Report Summary

2017 Data Breach Investigations Report Full Report

War Games

A young man finds a back door into a military central computer in which reality is confused with game-playing, possibly starting World War III.

One of the first movies about hacking.

