

Activity 6

Estimated Time: 10 minutes

You just learned that the myth that depression is a disease is false, and instead should be referred to as a disorder. Think about what you learned in this module and what you might say to someone who comes to you with the thoughts that depression is a disease. List several facts that you can offer to prove that depression is not a disease, and come up with an argument against the myth.